CAREER OVERVIEW:

Matthew began his legal career as Assistant to Command Counsel for the United States Army Corps of Engineers, Europe. After relocating to the United States he began work with the Missouri Attorney General's office assisting with the Special Prosecution unit and defending the Treasurer in claims brought against the Second Injury Fund.

Matthew took that experience and began defending employers and insurance carriers in Workers Compensation actions. He is licensed to practice in Kansas and Missouri and frequently can be found defending cases in all corners of both states. Matthew has successfully defended employers and insurance companies at the Administrative Judge Level, as well as before the Missouri Labor and Industrial Relations Commission, the Kansas Appeals Board and the Court of Appeals in both states.

Matthew prides himself on accessibility and attention to detail.
